CRESCENTS TO PLAY CO. M OF MILFORD AGAIN

The Crescents, champions of New England and the fast Milford, Mass., quintet of basketball tossers will clash for another game in Town hall, Danfor another game in Town hall, Danlelson Saturday night. The fans of Eastern Connecticut after seeing the great game in Taftville last Saturday night want to see these teams clash again, and the demand was so great that both managers came to terms Tuesday night and arranged for the big contest. Both teams will line up as last Saturday and the fans of Eastern Connecticut are sure of another great contest. More than $500 changed hands last Saturday and no doubt. ed hands last Saturday and no doubt the betting will be as heavy for the coming game. Milford will be represented by Allison T. Marks. S. Marks. Kinney. McCullen and the famous "Bull" Harvey, a man of 45 years of age who has a world wide. age who has a world wide reputation and can step around the court with any of them today. He's worth going many miles to see.

The Crescents will have Belair,

PALACE BOWLERS STRENGTHEN

HOLD ON CHAMPIONSHIP HOLD ON CHAMPIONSHIP

The championship of the Trolley league was practically decided Wednesday evening when the Palace team swamped the Tufts Five on Willimanstic's own alleys. The local boys went to the Thread City with every determination of cinching the championship and their fondest hopes were realized, as they took three straight from the students of Tufts bowling scademy. The first string was a tie, each team getting 594, and the winner of the second of the second of the proposed by the Three-A's.

The first string was a tie, each team getting 594, and the winner of the second of the first string was to be credited with two conditions. The local leam in this string hit the pins for 620, while their less fortunate opponents were 96 pins in fortunate opponents were 96 pins in the second of a few years from the game, senice of a few years from the game. All the signs point to victory in both senice of a few years from the game. Will the signs point to victory in both big sames.

So much has been written about Harvard and Haughton that a new point of view is not amiss. Many claim that Haughton owes much of his success to his assistants. One of his success to his assistants one of his success to his assistants. One of his succe fortunate opponents were 98 pins in the rear. The last string was easily taken by the Palace bowlers. Mc-Carthy was the estellar performer of the match, getting high total of 394

594 524 528 1646 SAYS HAUGHTON WILL AGAIN. HEAD CRIMSON AFFAIRS By SOL METZGER

While there are many surmises regarding Percy Haughton and whether or not he will coach the Harvard football team this fall it is my belief that Haughton will again be at the head of the Crimson's gridiron af-fairs. But I do not look for a de-cision until well into the summer. It will take some time to clear the atmosphere and land Haughton on the

The talk that Haughton has business interests which will prevent him resuming control of football is mostly bosh. Haughton was tied up at pro-fessional baseball and in the sporting goods business back in 1916, the last year Harvard had a varsity on the gridiron, but today Haughton is out of baseball and well able to mix in the strategy of football the coming fall. If anything he should have more time than in previous years

If anything he should have more time than in previous years.

The delay in securing Haughton is due to the salary to be paid and how it is to be produced. While there is a good deal of talk about reducing the coaching salaries at the "Big Three," and of upsetting a lot more in the way of sacred tradition, it is mostly 'alk. The engagement of Sharpe at Yaie is not going to sange the athletic policy there. Already the old standbys in New Haven football—Bull and Brides—will be on hand this fail to develop the eleven. Haughton will ne paid everything the Harvard athletic paid everything the Harvard athletic association can pay him. The rub is that the athletic association cannot produce enough to en-gage Haughton. To be sure there are graduates in abundance to make up the difference, but Haughton prefers to avoid this sort of salary. He thinks that a graduate who helps pay his salary might feel at liberty to butt in and dictate, and he will have none of this. Just how the financial end is to be arranged is unknown to me. I'm backs. The Yale game was lost by betting it will be, though.

This is contrary to most views, I know. But here is the way I arrived at it. Talked with one of Haughton's depriving Harvard of its strongest tain Gregory was the mainstay for his team. The lineup:

And therein was the story. Harvard coaches of 1916 expect to handle the team this fall. The talk about Haughton and his advisers and assistants dropping out is nothing more than talk. Everything points to this conclusion, too. Harvard coaches have it in the back of their heads that 1919 is to be a lan-ner year. They know Sharpe's methods and think that a victory over Yale is more certain than if Tad Jones were coming back. And the Princeton affairs does not loom big with Roper coming there as coach after an absence of a few years from the game. All the signs point to victory in both big games.

to coach the line! and Dave Camp-bell, Harvard's captain of the 1901 championship eleven, to coach the ends. These three men rank among the greatest instructors for these various positions that exist today. Graves un-doubtedly founded the system of line play which has been the foundation of Harvard's success. Haughton is inclined to be radical in play. Daly, first, and then Leo Leary were the brakes on Haughton, the men who made him stick to fundamentals and keep away from what is termed as "modern football."

As a result of valued assistance Haughton made a wonderful success at Harvard. It detracts none from his own ability that he had the good sense to gather around him capable assist-ants. The credit of success goes to him just the same.

Harvard's football coaches hold what may seem an odd view in the matter of which was the strongest Haughton team. They claim that the 1909 eleven, ne of the two to lose to Yale while F D. was coach, was their strongest pro-duct. Here's the dope from them.

SPORTING NOTES

After the public wrestled with the ronunciation of Jules Goux in 1913 it vas all worn out with the fifty-seven ways of pronouncing it. Now here's another 500-mile race and right off the bat come such names as Goux, Chas-sagne, LeCocq, not to mention the difficulty some of the bugs have with Duesenburg.

Rabbit Maranville is discharged from the navy and will re-enter base-ball. Which reminds one that the Rabbit spent the last year in riding to and from France in the service of his Uncle Samuel.

Eddie Hearne's entry for the 500mile race with a Chevrolet Special, again raises the specter as to just what a Chevrolet Special is.

It's no longer necessary to go into the details describing the practical merits of the Ford car-everybody knows all about "The Universal Car."
